HOW END-OF-LIFE BATTERIES BREATHE LIFE INTO THE ENVIRONMENT

We know the impact industrial processes can have on the environment. But because we know batteries like no-one else, we also know there's a positive opportunity to seriously minimise the effect of battery production by operating a closed recycling loop.

ECOBAT Technologies is the world's largest producer of lead and lead alloys used in lead-acid batteries, with 17 smelting and production facilities throughout Europe, the United States and South Africa. And it's the only company in the world that operates a closed recycling loop for lead-acid batteries. It recovers old batteries, refines the lead and chemical content, and refeeds the recovered materials into lead smelters for the production of new batteries, thus completing the cycle, and contributing to the use of the Earth's finite resources.

That's how we operate a life cycle that's good for the environment and good for your business.
